

Capitol Connection Q&A for Contractors
By Shauna Krause, President, Capitol Services, Inc.

What's yours, may actually be their's, or so license law reads. For another contractor there is no 'grace' in answering his many questions! Let's go wild on dba's to wrap it up...

Q: We are working on changing our Responsible Managing Employee (RME) (our qualifier) on our California contractor's license. When we change our RME, will that change our contractor number? We are trying to determine if we need to update all of our contracts with vendors, etc. in connection with the change.

A: Your license number will not change when you change your Qualifying Individual. The license belongs to the company, not an individual, so the individual does not "take" the number with them when they leave

Q: Is there a grace period for an HIS to be able to sell contracts? For example, can they sell if they have an application submitted but not yet processed by the CSLB? Similarly, is there a grace period for HIS registrations? For example, how long do we have to notify the CSLB of an active HIS? For HIS licenses, what are the parameters to either renew an expired license OR apply for a whole new license? We have some reps that held licenses previously but have expired, some less than, some greater than, 10 years ago.

A: No, there is no grace period for an HIS to be able to sell contracts. You must wait until the CSLB issues an Home Improvement Sales (HIS) number to have them start working as an HIS. When your company hires an HIS, you are required to complete and submit the notification form to the CSLB upon employment of the individual, but submission of that form meets the notification requirement. So as soon as it's submitted, the person can start acting as home improvement salesperson. With regards to the expiration/renewals, they can renew an HIS registration for up to three years after it expires. After three years have passed, they must apply for a new registration number.

Q: How many assumed names (i.e., doing/business/as) can we operate under our license? Are assumed name assignments based on the specific trade or the name of the entity? We are thinking about adding plumbing to our business and want to know if we can use a name other than [ex] XYZ A/C (which implies just air conditioning).

A: You can only have one dba attached to your license. You can have as many dba's as you want, but if you are operating under separate dba's each one needs it's own license.

Ex: XYZ Services dba XYZ A/C, license number 1000000

XYZ Services dba XYZ Plumbing, license number 1000001

And yes, the dba name needs to be indicative of the classification the license is holding.

ON-THE-JOB TRAINING (OJT) FAQ

Q: What is an OJT?

A: An OJT is a Nevada Business and Career Network sponsored program that can provide wage reimbursement of up to 50% during the training period of a new hire. These positions must be filled with individuals who do not currently meet all of the requirements for the position and will require a level of training beyond the typical new hire. The program is intended for full-time, higher skilled, higher paying positions that can justify the training need.

Q: What is the length of an OJT?

A: Training timelines range from 1 to 6 months in general. Length is determined by assessing the employee's skill gap coupled with estimated length of time to become proficient in the position.

Q: What options do I have selecting an OJT candidate?

A: Your business can identify a prospective employee or we can recruit candidates for you to choose from. Candidates recruited will have an identified need for training and meet eligibility requirements as determined by Nevada Business and Career Network.

Q: What is my responsibility?

A:

1. Provide Nevada Business and Career Network with a job description and key job responsibilities for the OJT position, as well as business insurance documentation.
2. Provide the trainee with an environment conducive to training including instruction, supervision, monitoring, coaching, etc.
3. Allow the Nevada Business and Career Network to be involved in monthly performance reviews between employee and employer.
4. Provide accurate paystubs, time and attendance records to receive a check of reimbursement for wages paid.
5. Abide by California employment laws.
6. Maintain trainee's employment status for a minimum of 6 months after the completion of the OJT. This is contingent upon the individual satisfactorily completing the training agreement.
7. Further details are outlined in the OJT contract and are available upon request.

Q: Is my business eligible for an OJT candidate?

A: Your business cannot be religiously or politically affiliated. An OJT cannot cause the elimination, reduction of hours, or replacement of any current employees. Additionally, businesses who have been in previous OJT or Internship agreements must have upheld their previous contracts and be in good standing according to Nevada Business and Career Network's criteria.

Q: How can I find out more?

A: For an OJT business inquiries in Nevada County please contact:

INTRODUCTION

Arc welding uses a welding power supply to create an electric arc between an electrode and the base material to melt the metals at the welding point. Arc cutting is a process using consumable carbon or graphite electrodes where metal is cut by the heat of a carbon arc. It is important to follow these safety rules to avoid creating safety hazards and unsafe working conditions.

POTENTIAL HAZARDS

There are many potential hazards associated with arc welding and cutting. Listed below are some of the potential hazards:

- Corrosive fumes
- Excessive Steam
- Flammable gas
- Risk of electric shock
- Excessive dust
- Unusual seacoast or shipboard conditions (if applicable)

PERSONAL PROTECTIVE EQUIPMENT

- Shoes- Steel toed boots are recommended.
- Eye and Face- Eye and face protection should be worn at all times.
- Proper Attire- Clothing should remain dry to prevent the risk of electric shock.
- Flame resistant, long sleeved shirts and pants should be worn to prevent burns.

VOLTAGE

Due to possible electrical hazards, the control of the voltage output is extremely important. Open circuit (no load) voltages of arc welding and cutting machines should be as low as possible and consistent with satisfactory welding or cutting being done. Employees should not exceed the following limits:

1. Alternating current machines
  - Manual arc welding and cutting- 80 volts
  - Automatic arc welding and cutting- 100 volts
2. Direct current machines
  - Manual arc welding and cutting- 100 volts
  - Automatic arc welding and cutting- 100 volts
3. When special welding and cutting processes require valves of open circuit voltages higher than the recommended voltage, the operator should be protected from making accidental contact with the high voltage by providing adequate insulation.

SAFE WORK PRACTICES

It is important to follow proper safe work practices to prevent injury or illness from arc welding and cutting hazards. Listed below are some very important steps to make sure that safety is maintained.

- The electrode holders should be removed when left unattended.
- Hot electrode holders should not be cooled off by dipping in water.
- The power supply switch to the equipment should be left opened when the welder or cutter leaves or stops work for any significant amount of time.
- Any faulty or defective equipment should be reported to the supervisor.
- Protect skin and eyes from UV light by using appropriate personal protective equipment.
- Shield the area with noncombustible or flameproof screens when welding.
- Work should be conducted in a well ventilated area.
- Keep area free of debris and flammable material.
- The frames of arc welding and cutting machines should be grounded.
- Cables in poor condition should not be used.

CONCLUSION

Arc welding and cutting can be dangerous for the welder and those around them. Following the above rules and manufacturer's manual should greatly reduce employee risk to injury and/or illness.
